FRIDAY MORNING, JULY 13, 1855. FIRE IN WASHINGTON .-- . The Commonwealth says that at about 2 o'clock on Saturday afternoon last, a framestable, in the rear of Messis. Morgan & Workman's grocery, belonging to Mr. George Black, was discovered to be on fire. A number of stables and other out buildings were in great danger of deing destroyed, but our energetic firemen were soon upon the ground, and with the assistance of other citizens prevented the fire from spreading. We regret to say that a fine horse belong to Mr. Black, could not be removed from the stable, and perished in the flames. A buggy and light wagon were also lost. Mr. Black's loss amounts, we are told, to about $1000, but whether it is covered by insurance or not, we are unin-

a.T.Mr. Joseph Buffington, near Boalsville, in Washington county, I'a., shot himself through the heart on Tuesday last and died immediately. He was to be married the next day, 4th of July. The parties were of the highest respectability-the cause of this sad affair has not t.anspired.

Mayon Woon .-- Among the distinguished perrons who called to pay their respects to Mayor Wood on last Saturday was ex-President Fillmore, who was received in a most cordial manner. The ex-president, on his part, spoke of Mayor Wood in terms of the highest respect. He told him that his admin istration of public affairs in the city of New York had created universal admiration, and that in his travels of late in the Wertern States, he found him to be the most popular man, and his name upon the tongue of everybody, coupled with expressions of love and esteem. In this interview were brought together one who had been a model President and one who is a model Mayor.

There is an establishment in New York, extensively eneaged in manufacturing shirt collars of paper. It is said that 1000 per hour are turned off by machinery, and that they bear such a close resemblance to the linen collars we are in the habit of wearing, that the difference could only be discovered by tearing the article. REGULATING EXCHANGE .- During Anniversary time in New York, a boy asked his companion what was the reason for so many ministers meeting together every year? The other answered, To exchange sermons to be sure!

ANOTHER STEAMBOUT BURNED .- The Memphis Whig states that the steamer Knoxville, running in the Tennessee river and Memphis trade, took fire Tuesday hight last in the Tennessee river, 125 miles from P ducah. She was on her downward trip. The bat and a large and valuable cargo were destroyed.

13 The Printer's Union of Rochester having prescribed terms to the publishers, the latter tefused to submit. The consequence has been a strike, which, it is said, will lead to the employment of a large number of girls in the business of type setting.

STORM IN WIN ONRIN .- The storm in Wisconsin, on Wednesdaday, did a large amount of damage. The destruction of bridges and mill dams was ingiver rose to a great height, and mense. Rock nearly all the bridges were swept away, of more or less damaged.

IJ The new scamer Ocean Bird, which is expected to cross the ccean from New York to Liverpool in seven Jays, made a trial trip on the 4th, and fully realized the expectations indulged of her speed. She male twenty miles an hour, under an ordinary head of steam.

A Taustino Cestomen.—A week or two since, a decently dressed, elderly man, called at the shop of our townsman, Mr. Muithead, jeweler and watchmaker, Buchanan street, and quietly asked if his wotch was ready, or, in other words, if it was repaired. As Mr. Muithead had no remembrance at the moment of having done business with the man, he asked, in turn, when he had left the atticle. 'Oh,' said the other, 'I didna' leave it in thi' shop, for ye ower tye in Nelson strees when ye got it.' Mr. Muithead, 'That must, have been a long time ago, then; for we left Nelson street in 1838—that is 17 years since.' 'Int I left it wi' ye for a' that,' said the other. He was then asked for the name and the number of the watch, which he described to a nicety, and on opening the repository it was found safe and A TRUSTING CUSTOMER .- A week or two since , on opening the repository it was found safe and sound. Exactly twenty-two years have passed since Duncan handed it in for repair, yet he called for it at the end of that period as coolly as if he had left it only the preceding week. Duncan's account is -- Ye see, I'm a sawver to my trade, and I gaed over to America that season to see how things were looking, for I kent the watch would be safe till I cam' back, but I staid a wee thocht longer than I intended - Glasgow Chronicle.

Mr. Andrew Haymaker, of Charleston, 111., who has been blind in one eye for 54 years, in consequence of a film growing over it, was sud-denly restored to sight a short time since in the following manner: He was standing on the steps of the Court House, in that village, while a number of men and boys were playing ball. The ball projected with great force, struck him in the bline eye, completely removing the film, and restoring sight. Considerable inflammation followed, but it is new getting better, and the sight is good.

A PRETTY CONCEIT .- One of our correspondents has a bright little rirl, just learning to talk, who is destined to be a poetess. Some of her pretty rayings we have already chronicled. Here is the last: A bob o-link come and sang on a free near the window. She was much delighted, and asked:

Is Sebastepol Armageddon-the Place Spoof in Revelation XVI. 16?

this view, permit me to throw out for consideration et Onniel says, in speaking of these last times in the following lants:

Commentators, writing before the present war, have, I believe, generally drawn their explanation of the word "Armageddon," from its first syllable Ar, signifying a mountain; but this has thrown no light upon the text. There is another Hebrew word, having the same sound, (Ar.) though form ed from a different letter. This Ar signifies a city. Joining to it is the word Mageddon, which meleting our way; but, whatever duildence should in the present state of things accompany our consideration on the subject, it cannot be otherwise than profitable, if in thinking of the sixth vial, we imbibe the lesson emphatically introduced amid the description of its woes: "Hehold, I come as a thief; blessed is he that watcheth and they see his shame. And he gathered them together into a place called in the Hebrew tongue least, curious; but the point admits of further gether into a place called in the Hebrew topque St John wrote in Greek, and if he had not in the passage under consideration iorsaken the Greek for the Hebrew, that passage would have run thus our English translation: "And he gathered them together into a place

"And he gathered them together into a prace called, in the Greek ton ue, Sebistopol.

But this would have been to plain for prophecy, which employs enigmatical devices for the purpose of presenting truth, as it were looming in a mist, to the eye of faith, while it consents the precise event foreshad wed from certain knowledge until the account method for its development. In this the proper period for its development. instance, the engina consists in substituting the Hebrew word Armageddon, for the plain name of the place Schustopol. It deserves remark, that had St. John used the Greek word Schustopol, this too, might have equally hidden his meaning, up to the time when the Russians gained fraudulent possession of the Crimea, but no longer. The Tartar name of the place was Aktiar. Dr. Clorke, in his travels, publiseed in 1810, alluding to this change in the designation of the city says:

"We teached the great bay of Aktiar, upon the cate of the control of the city says: which place the Russians, in the time of Catharine II, bestowed the fantastic of Sebistopol."

At that time the new name was fantastic; but may enhance our reverence for divine inspiration to reflect that not only was it forescen that the place of gathering should ages after be called in man prole by a lantastic name, but that it should, in a short time, by the conse of Provi-dence, vindicate its title to be considered teatly illustrious. For, what can be better entitled to such a term than that very place on which the eyes of the world are now fixed? The two greatest nations of Europe putting forth, and, as yet, vainly, their mighty resources to take it, and the maneuse Empire of Russin so obstunitely, and beyond all calculation, defending it. It is truly the illustrious city, the Sebistopil, the Armogeddon-cail it which we will.

Learned interpreters of prophecy, (Mr. Elliot, for instance,) some years ago brought down, from totally independent considerations, our present chronological position to the outpouring of the sixth visi. Under that visit the battle of Armaged don takes place; so that we ought now to be looking out for Armingeddon—and if we ask where it is, Sepastopol marvenously onswers the question. It is very cutious that there is a vailey in the It is very curious that there is a valley in the Crimea, in the neighborhood of Sebastopol, known by the mame of Jehoshaphat. The Prophet Joels speaking of the restortion of the Jews—an event which the Christain world now looks for as man describes the gathering of the nations to the valley of Jehoshaphat. The whole passage (Joel iii.) is worthy of deep consideration and of close compatison with scriptures.—Your teaders can refer to it; and some of them may be surprised to learn that Dr. Clarke describes a colony or the Karatle Jews in that part of the Crimes, about the valley of Jehoshaphat, temakable for their purity, integrity and fruth. Connect this with the prophetic fact that the Lord is to violicate his people, the Jews, at the valley of Jehoshaphat. Bishop Louth, expounding the Prophet Joel, thus expressed himself many years ago: "The prophets speak of a general discomitture of God's enemies in some decisival battle before the general jangement;" such, probably, is the battle of Gog and Magog, and in Ezekiel xxxix, and that of Atmageddon in Rev. xvi. The place of this temarkable action is here 'called the Valley of Jehoshaphat.'

is here 'called the Valley of Jeneshapiat.'
In Revelations xvi, the gathering to Armage.don is to be by three spirits like lings, coming out of the mouth of the Bragon, the Beast, and the False Prophet. It would cotroborate the identity of Se-britopol and Armogedion if the present gathering round Sebastopol can be traced to the sort of in-stigation thus intimated. The Diogon is unquestionally, as explained in the Apocatypee, that old septent the Devit." Something characteristic of Salan we ought, therefore, to find in one of the chief actors in the contest. "How art thou fallen from heaven, O Lucifer, son of the morning." (Is. xiv. 12.) Thus speaks the proptet in allusion to the King of Babylon, whose pride was instigated by Satan. "The fall of Satan, the prince of the aposinte augels, is also sometimes attuded to by the prophets when they threaten destruction to the and insolent tyrants, who, in unitation of the pride of the Devil, exalt themselves against Bod and his truth, and are the instruments of Satun in promoting idolatry and wickedness in the world," (Louth.) Does not this remind us of the proud, authitions Cast, and of his protectorate of the idolatrous Greek Church! Then there is the the holatrous Greek Charlett. Then there is the fact that Satan's primal templation was that the human pair, by grasping at indiwind acquisition, might become as gods. It is notocons, that by cognate motives the policy of Russia has for ages been animated to unrighteous aggrandizement and that the same lust of territorial extension on the part of Nicholas, coupled with his ambition to verrule the Sultan in the government of his Greek subjects, as though he would lift up himself to a God-like elevation in the world, has issued in the present war. The frog out of the mouth of the Dragon has undoubtedly whispered into the ear of Har form whispering in the ear of Eve.

The Beast leads our thoughts to Popery. The Dragon which swaved the old Pagan Roman Em-Dragon which swaved the old Pagan Roman Empire cave his seat (Rome) to the Beast. See Rev. aiii, for this and other evidences that the Beast images Popery. The frog out of the month of the Beast may without difficulty be interpreted of the inspiration which has gathered France into the struggle. The quarrel actually began in a dispute between the Letin and Greek pilgrims for certain advantages in their superstitious worship at the hoty places in Palestine. France, long since regarded as the protecting power of the Latin or Popish Pagrims, has certainly maintained that character in the diplomacy connected with the present contest. She had obtained distinct advantages for those Roman or Popish pilgrims by a first nan from the Porte. This roused the jealousy of Russio, the protector of the Greek palgrims, and, according to formal public documents, the advancement of rival claims by the Czar in respect to the holy places—Greek superstition thus com-batting with Latin—has been the proximate cause of the war. France then was prompted to provoke this jealousy by the freg out of the mouth of the Besst. The third frog is out of the mouth of the Palce rophet. To whom does that appelation in proerbial usage apply, but to Mahomet! I amawate hat some learned writers identify the Palse Prophet with the two-horned heast spoken of in an entier part of Revenation, but this may at least be questionable, and the argument from proverbial usage is strong on the other side. This trog gathers the Turks, the most distinguished professors of ers the Turks, the most distinguished professors of Mahometamson, into the contest.

Although these three gatherings correspond renarkably with three of the chief actors in the drama, the gathering is not limited to them, but ex-tends to the 'kings of the earth,' which may be easily understood on the well-known principle that a contest once begun commonly and draws in various other parties beside those in-terested in the original cause of the quarrel. The plot thickens, and thus England, though not di- range of hills, re-un te and rush to the sea through rectly instigated, yet in some insiduous way acted upon, has been early and deeply engaged. Her gotives are in themselves high and honorable, but, nevertheless, she is actually involved in a fine quality, and in abundance. The town of Whampos is situated on one of of sin, into the deadly strife. Hussia did not wish the islands thus formed by the Canton river, 16 of sin, into the deadly strife. Russia did not wish for war, but sought only through diplomatic craft and intimidation for agrandizement. The policy of the Emperor of France was for various teasons pacific, but he could not help being dragged in.— England has been notoriously taunted with her reluctance to engage. Even the invasion of the Procipalities, an indisputable cases belli, was endured. Tutkey deprecated war above every thing. Austria and Prissia have not yet come in.

On all sides every nerve was strained for peace, but the word was spoken and gathered they must

The following curious theory, identifying Sebastopol with the Armageddon of Revelations, appears in a late English Journal. Our readers will find it smusing if nothing more:

I am, sir, your obedient rervant, DANIEL NIHLL, Rector of Fitz, Shiewsbury,

What a pair of Audirons Cost

'Peter,' said my uncle, knocking the ashes from his pipe, and laying it on the corner of the shelf, and then fixing his eyes on the audirous. 'Peter, these andirous cost me one thousand collars.' Deat mel' exclaimed my aunt.

'Oh, father!' exclaimed the girls. 'Impossible:' said I.
'True-every word true. One thousand, did I say!-yes-two thousand-full two thousand dollars.'

'Well,' said my nunt folding up her knitting for the night, 'I should like to know what you are talking about?'

g arount uncle bent forward, and planting his hands on his parted knees, and with a deliberate nit, which showed no doubt of being able to prove his assertion, he began: "Well, you see, a good many years ago, we had a pair of common old andirons. Your cousin Let-ty says one day, 'Pather, don't you think these old ancirons are getting too shabby!' Shabby or not,

I thought they would hold the wood just as nicely as if they were made of gold. Soon after that, l'eter,' continued my uncie, 'your aunt took "There it goes," interrupted my nunt, 'you can't get along without dragging me in.'

Your mint took it up, Peter, and she said our neighbors could afford brass andirons, and they were no better off than we were. And she said Letty and her sister Jane were just getting enough to see company, and the stingy looking andatons might hart their market. I knew that women will have their own way, and there is no use in objecting and so I got the auditous." The price of them was four dollars and a 'Ah, that's more like it,' cried my aunt, 'I tho't

'Ah, that's more like it,' cried my aunt, 'I tho't you said two thousand dollats!'
'My dear, I wish you would not interrupt me. Pour and a haff. Well the first night after we got them, as we all sat by the warm fire talking over the matter, Letty called my attention to the hearth the stones of which were cracked and uneven.— The hearth was entirely out of keeping with the new andrions and I thought I might as well have it replaced first as last. The rest day a mason was sent for to examine it. He came in my absence, and when I returned home, your aunt and ousing beset me at once to have a marble slab and they put their heads together.'

La me ! here exclaimed my aunt, there was no putting heads together about it. was a real old, worn out thing, and not fit for a

"They put their heads together, Peter, as I was saying, and continued till I got a marble heattl which cost me twenty dollars-yes, twenty dol ars at least. Then I thought I was done with expenses, but I was wrong. Soon I began to hear sly hints thrown out about the brick work around the fire place not corresponding with hearth. I stood out a moment of two against your aunt and the girls, but they at length got the better of me, and I was forced to have marble instead of brick. And then the old mantelpiece was so out of char-The cest of all this was nearly one hundred dollars. And now that the spirit of improvement had got a start there was no stopping. The new marble mantle put to shame the old whitewashed walls, and they must be painted, of course, and to prepare them for paint, sundry repairs were necessory. White this was going on, your cant and the girls appeared to be quite satisfied, and when it was done, they had no idea that the old parior could be made to look so spuce. But this was only a short respite. The old ray curpet began to raise a dust, and I found there would be no

That does that make?'
'One hundred and fifty, uncle,'
'Well, fifty for paper and paint?'

'Two hundred.'
'Then fitty for a carpet, and one hundred at least for furnitute' -'Phree hundred and fifty.'

'Ahem! There's that clock, too, and the blinds four hundred, exactly. My aunt and cousing winked at each other.

'Now,' continued my uncle, 'so much for this one room. No sooner was the room finished, than the companies came from all quarters, about the dining room and entry. Long before this I had surrendered at discretion, and handed in my subthe Autocrat just as Mirton describes Satan in simmission. The during 160m cost two hundred more, What does that count, Peter?

'Eight hundred, uncle.'
'Then the chambers—at least four hundred to

'The outside of the house had to be repaired and painted, of course. Add two hundred for that?'
'Fourteen hundred.' Then there must be a piezza in front—that cost vo hundred. 'Sixteen hundred.' Here aunt began to yawn, Letty to poke the re, and Jame to twirt over the leaves of a book.

A new carriage came next, Peter; that cost two bundred dollars. "E gliteen hundred dollars."

"Then there was a lawn to be laid out and neatly fenced-a servant to be hired-parties given occasionally-bonnets and dresses at double the former cost, and a hundred other little expen ses in keeping with the new order of things. Yes, Peter, I was entirely within bounds when I saw two thousand dollars.'

The opposition was silent. My aunt immediately rose and guessed it was bedtime. I was left atone with my uncle, who was not inclined to drop the subject. He was a persevering man, and hever gave up what he undertook, till he had done the work thoroughly. So he brought out his books and accounts and set about making an exact estimate of the expenses. He kept me up till clusion was that the part of anditons cost him twenty-four hundred and fifty dollars.

It was a lovely day when the old Mississippithe Hungarian's Friend, as she is styled in Europ neglided majestically up this river and anchored among our merchant fleet, in a position to protect them from hurt or hindrance; for owing to the revolution, the country had become so distracted that piracy was common in onen daylight, and within reach of rifle shot from the guarded parts

Things had arrived at such extremities that our Consul applied to Commodore Perry to allow one of his squadron to remain near them, when he did not need all their services in Japan. - And when it became necessary to withdraw the Mississipp the Commolore chartered, ufficered and armed mall steamer to remain for their protection in his

The merchant vessels cheered and saluted as we past, and were very vo cif rous indeed when our fine band enlivened them with 'Hail Columbia' and 'Yankee Doodle,' It was a warm pull for our sailors—sixteen miles the river is so obstructed by barriers placed across in the time of the English invasion, that all large vessels are obliged to anchor at Whampoa. On our passage up we passed several dead bodies
